

Yes. Of course there is too much vioence on television. Humans emulate what they see; especially children. When children are committing murder, it is evident that there is an enormous amount of vioence that is entering their minds by way of the media, and it is destroying our future.